Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Syllabus of a General Course on the Theory and Practice of Teaching in the Secondary School The accompanying syllabus indicates the series of topics treated in a General Course on Secondary Education. It does not profess to cover every question that may be legitimately related to the field of inquiry; and the outline here offered is to be considered primarily suggestive of the trend pursued. The references to the literature of the subject make no claim to completeness; the books and articles quoted have helped in a positive and negative sense to mold the views set forth in the lectures; if to some readers there appears more than the usual attention to works in foreign languages, it may at least remind students of education, how valuable an acquisition to them the mastery of German and French is likely to be. At the same time a valuable opportunity for comparison of foreign and American methods of investigation is afforded which will enable us to appreciate a number of careful recent American studies. In the second half of the course several of the leading subjects taught in Secondary Schools are taken up individually; and the various tendencies reflected in the teaching of them are brought to the notice of students, together with a survey of the methods that have been and are now applied by prominent teachers. In the actual conduct of the course similar outlines are offered for the Mathematics, the Natural Sciences, Manual Training, etc. From the many articles on method that constantly appear in educational journals, and from the more comprehensive treatises, it was necessary to make a restricted choice which naturally reflects personal...
